HENDERSON WILL RUN FOR GOVERNOR, GAMBLE THINKS

Believes Comer Can Beat Hobson for Senate—Close Political Friend of Two Candidates Discusses Men

Montgomery, March 6.—It is my opinion that Charles Henderson will be a candidate for Governor of Alabama, regardless of who else may be a candidate, declared John Gamble of Troy, regarded as Mr. Henderson's probable campaign manager. Mr. Gamble made this statement to an Advertiser representative at the Exchange Hotel last night.

It is also my opinion that former Governor Comer will be a candidate for the United States Senate provided he becomes convinced that he can make a successful race against Captain Hobson. If Mr. Comer decides not to run for the Senate, is my belief that he will run for Governor. Whether Mr. Henderson runs for Governor will make no difference with Mr. Comer and whether Mr. Comer runs for Senator will make no difference with Mr. Henderson in my opinion.

Mr. Gamble was guarded in his remarks.

I have no reason to believe that from anything Mr. Comer has told me, said the former senator from Pike, for I have had no conference with the former Governor respecting his plans. And it is only my judgment that what I have said concerning Mr. Henderson is correct. He has not told me that such was his plan.

But no man is closer to the pre-

He will run on a Henderson platform and his plans will in no way be affected by the plans of any other aspirant for political honor.

Mrs. C. E. Arnold and daughters Vera and Ada of Headland returned home today after a few days visit in the city.

What distinguished war is not that man is slain but that he is slain but that he is slain spoiled crushed by the cruelty the injustice the treachery the murderous hand of man. The evil moral evil war is the concentration of all human crimes. Here is its distinguished record—accused brand under standard—gather violence, treason, fraud, perfidy, rapacity and lust. If it only slew men it would do little. It turns man into a beast of prey. Here is the evil of war that man made to be the brother becomes the deadly foe of his kind that man whose only life is to mitigate suffering, makes the infliction of suffering his study and end that man whose office it is to avert and heal the wounds which come from Nature's powers makes his arch enemy Nature's laws and arms him self with her most awful forces that he may become the destroyer of his race. Nor is this all. There is also found in war a cold hearted indifference to human misery a callousness, perhaps more abhorring than the cold passion it calls forth to my mind this contempt of human nature is singularly offensive. I hate, express my contempt, like the serpent. But in war man treats his brother as nothing worth sweeping away from multitudes as insects, tramples them down as grass moths at the rights and does not deign a thought to their woes. Will you hear me? Truly, Chivalry.

Farewell is a favor which by a special act of grace God has bestowed upon the human race. Man is thereby lifted above all other animals with the ability to get him self damned. Voltaire.

AN INHERITED ANOMALY

Anomalies of form and function are common inborn defects which come to the attention of every physician in the course of his routine of experience. Oddities of human skin color, aside from familial pigmentation defects or cutaneous blemishes are less frequently encountered. An interesting variation exhibited by a family of spotted negroes has been described by Simpson and Castle in The American Naturalist. The pied-à-terre condition of the skin which is spotted with white in a fairly definite pattern not unlike that of a certain domesticated animal, namely the appearance as a mutation or sport in a negro family of the Southern United States about thirty years ago. Aside from the immediate probability of this rather unique variation there is decided hereditary interest in the fact that it has already shown itself fully hereditary through two generations of offspring. To the student of heredity the data that have been collected in reference to the family are very suggestive and quite in harmony with the doctrine of inheritance. The naked founders of the spotted line were entirely normal in appearance and devoid of the characteristic pigmentation of their offspring. The pattern of the latter may be described in terms of its black areas as having a prominent black stripe which begins on the head and extends the entire length of the trunk narrowing below and ending on the buttocks. The white areas are in all cases devoid of pigment while the pigmented areas are apparently not subject to change from the definite heredity fixed at birth. Of the children living to the second generation of the spotted line the mother, the remaining seven being normal, and one of the six of these fifteen children three normal and three still more marked normal negro males.

The Autobiography of a Fly

Told in Simple Fly Language

Get On In the World. Although this is a kind Mr. Jones house was the success cost many kind human persons they live in the neighborhood. I refer to Mr. Jones as kind because he left that pile undisturbed during the infestation of myself and all of my little brothers and sisters and cousins. He had moved our house more than we would have died. So I trust you will understand why I start my story in the middle of my part.

I can only ask the reader to pardon me—but if the tale be apropo and interesting I will feel that my efforts have not been wasted. I am sure the whole clan of Common House flies all indulge the truth of my tale.

To begin with I cannot remember much of my early youth because then I was only a wiggler and not a real fly. I did not yet very far from the refuse pile where I was born but I enjoyed the company of thousands and thousands of other insects since the refuse pile the spotted pattern which behaves according to Simpson and Castle consistently as a simple mendelian dominant character the only peculiarity being the excess of white in the hair of the spotted family are now widely scattered some of the spotted ones being collected with public exhibitions. Inasmuch as their heredity is an example, we closely related should marry each to them it is not likely to put up other a new type of individual hindrance to their racial increase.

ALABAMA SENATORS MAY HEAD BIG COMMITTEES

Bankhead is listed for Post office and Johnson for Military Affairs

By ALFRED J. STODER, WASHINGTON, March 6.—In spite of the complexion of the committee on committees named by the Senate Democrats in caucus today the general impression is that the seniority rule will prevail so far as chairmanships of the leading committees are concerned.

In that event the Alabama Senators are certain of heading important committees. Mr. Bankhead Postoffices and Mr. Johnson, Military Affairs. The Progressives or Radicals as some folks call them, appear to have the upper hand in the Senate organization as they have seven of the nine members of the committee on committees.

The election of Secretary of State Bryan has been called to the fact that among the United States Congress there is only one Democrat on the list receiving a salary amounting to $3,000 a year or over.

Before quitting office Mr. Tammie put all of the consuls under blanket civil service rules. If Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan permit this rule to stand it is going to be a cold day for Alabamians and other Southern folks who have been hoping to serve Uncle Sam in consular positions.

Among the latest arrivals from Alabama is State Senator Godbold, who is a candidate for United States Attorney in the Southern District. He has many endorsements.

Sam C. Jenkins, Representative in the State Legislature from Baldwin County, is also here looking over the situation.

Ex-Governor Jinks, who has been here attending the meeting of the National Democratic Committee will leave for Birmingham tomorrow. Mr. folks thinks there is no great harmony among the members of this important organization, which argues well for the future success of the party.

The committees have not only formally called upon President Wilson but have also called upon Secretary Bryan and other cabinet officers.

Tyler Goodwin chairman of the Alabama Democratic committee who arrived yesterday and has been mingling with his party associates will go to New York before returning home.

We have remarked before that there isn't an authentic case on record where anybody's patent medicine or that without patents, that ever made two hairs grow when none were growing before. But if you will look through the papers you will see such advertisements.

And that is a sign somebody is buying the preparations and they wouldn't buy it if they didn't think it would help them. Usually it takes the people so long to have certain things till the brands have made their pile and escape to foreign lands, and live happily ever after.

THOSE WILSON GIRLS

Henry Allen, editor of the Wichita Eagle and Washington correspondent of the Kansas City Star, thinks those Wilson girls won't do at the White House. He states reasons in an editorial in the Wichita Beacon as follows: says the Sun Journal.

"We begin to fear that the daughters of the next president are not going to be popular in high society in Washington when people will now move into the White House."

You know, high society is largely marked by its possession of more dollars and more idle time than most people have. Its standards are different from those of the mass of the people, one of the cardinal points being to hold one's self aloof from the struggles and sorrows yet even the pleasures and joys of the multitude. One must live always on the heights where the doll mark is the prime hammett and where the leader of the next enthalion is a person of greatest importance and a decision about the that of one's going is more weighty than a national crisis.

Therefore we fear those Wilson girls won't do. It was perfectly scandalous for them to go to the immigration docks at New York and look over the babies of some common people. It was shocking to hear that they had tears in their eyes when they saw some little pretty mother doomed to go back to Europe and thus remain separated from her hard working husband who had sent for her.

If the Wilson girls desire to make good in Washington they must begin to take more interest in dances than in babies, they must worry more about perfume and powder than about the privations of mere common people they must cover harder their hearts and try to play their feelings they must learn that high society consists of the chosen few and that the plain people do not count for much in this best of all possible worlds.

It is a hard order and we don't whether those Wilson girls with their warm human sympathy their splendid womanly demeanor are going to succeed.

SHOULD TEACH TALKING

The public schools or our land should establish a new department. The teacher is not supposed to take children who cannot talk and they don't take any who can't make pretty good effort at it but they are taking in many children and turning out into who are burdening on to mankind and I wonder who can't talk intelligently.

That is no fault of the teacher for they are teaching them in English most of the time. If you will do nothing it is waste of words used in telling anything you can see the need of endowing a child of Word Economy or something like that. Men and women as well as children can do almost anything better than they can talk.

We don't know under what head this training would come but it should come under some head. Children from the earliest should be taught how to express themselves in the fewest words. They should use as few words as possible to get to the point. They should not repeat or stammer and wander off the subject. They need to know more of the value of pause; information on those little things that make one able to express one's self in an intelligent manner without stumbling around and using two or three hundred words where fifty is sufficient if they were put in the right place.

To teach this doesn't necessarily mean to make a linguist of the child. If you will listen to a speaker and check off the superfluous words he can be surprised.

Well the average speaker is a trained speaker by the side of people who are not accustomed to talk, while on their feet before audiences.

This Economy of Words should be part of the studies of the child in the first grade and he should stick to it till he leaves for home with a diploma of some sort and thus his foundation is laid. He will have to keep it up on through life to get the good of it and let the world share the benefit of his learning.

Dothan is an fast outgrowing the country town with all the terrible scandals can get whatever it is to rot half the people know about it.

When you have done your best you don't have to advertise the fact other people will take note of it in this.

It doesn't take a wise edge long to wear off in Dothan there are so many people who are willing to break in such a person.

People are like ants. When you disturb a bed of ants all the ants in that neighborhood seem to rush up and want to know what it's about.

No Higher? Why Corn Meal Is $1.20 A Bushel

An expert of the department of Agriculture says that much of the high cost of living may be laid at the door of extravagance and that the prices of necessities now are no higher than they were in other periods of this nation's history, not including war times.

He says that the average American today is living, faster and spending more money upon himself than he could easily do without than his father did. Of course the man who spends his income foolishly can expect to have many of his bills paid by his friends. There is no question that extra money waste and false economy in the home are contributing reasons to make it hard for the man of limited means to make ends meet. See in next news.

CHILD LABOR IN ALABAMA
—LIES FIGURES WRONGSometimes since life of New York stated that in Alabama there were 120,000 children engaged in gain ful occupations, and that this num ber was 45 per cent of the total number of children under sixteen years of age. In a later issue the Census Bureau and the National Child Labor Committee were re ferred to as authorities for the statement.Several Alabama papers have dis puted the correctness of these fig ures, but to my knowledge none has undertaken to show just where they are wrong.The following extracts from a let ter from Dr. J. V. McElvian Sec retary of the National Child Labor Committee may therefore be of in terest:The National Child Labor Com mittee is not responsible for these figures unless it be by way of compil ation of the Census return of 1900 which we have often analyzed in which was rather different from that given by life. The figures are taken from the Census of 1900 special in biles having been prepared for Do than in 1900 entitled Child Labor in the United States which was not published until 1907. This bulletin gives the following figures. Total number of children in Alabama 10 to 15 years of age (that is between the ages of 10 and 15) males 13 32 females 14,918 total 28,240
Of these children that are classi fied as broad winners 50.981
boys or 53 per cent of the total and 11,444 girls or 31.3 per cent of the total. The total number of broad winners 10 to 15 years of age
in Alabama being 122,438 or 4 per cent of the total.The broad winners as distinguis hed in the Census report from the child at school, so that those 47 per cent of the children 10 to 15 years of age were not attending school and were working at some kind of occupation when the Census report was taken.Of the 80,389 boys 10 to 15 years of age entitled broad winners 79 180 were engaged in agricultural pursuits and 19,089 in all other oc cupations while of the 43,614 girls
broad winners 10 to 15 years of age
17,776 were engaged in agricultural pursuits and 6,838 in other oc cupations.Leaving out the work on the farm while it is generally consider ed wholesome work for the child except where it interferes with his education the number of child la borers for Alabama as that term is ordinarily employed are 17,177
children 10 to 15 years of age.Life simply mixed the figures 14.71 per cent of the children is between 10 and 15 years of age
the number of children who would be broad winners because they did not attend school. We are not living off our children 14.71 per cent indicates every week or so we are only getting the children down in ignorance so that then they will bring them but a small return when they really become th State, but 13 winners.Life should be ashamed of its published misstatements and should be ashamed of the facts
In this connection another quo tation from Dr. McElvian may be worth while.In 1900 there was no child la bor law in Alabama and as a result one knows there were a very con siderable number of children under 10 years of age not enumerated in the census returns employed in ag riculture. Alabama now has a child labor law with the law as limit of 14-16 one of the five states in the American Union allows children of that age to be em ployed in factories. If I have said that is the purpose of a better child labor law and the protection of children and of the institution of Illinois and of the institution of protection for children working in factories may be removed fromAlabama. Alabama should not only act for this consumption but act to act to deal strict to them aboutE. F. MILLER

GRANGE MIXTURE

Is The Best It Is Possible To Produce

In every industry, there are firms who lack the originality and the business foresight of selling their goods through good constructive argument. They believe, apparently, so little in the superior merit of their own productions that they resort to fault-finding with their competitor's wares.

Luck is Largely a Matter of YOU! We had a man come to us the other day wanting some Nitrate of Soda to put out right now. We believe in letting a customer decide for himself what sort of fertilizer materials he should use, but we intimated that he should use Grange Mixture for the first application, and then later on, if he found his crop needed it, he might put on an application of quick acting nitrate. This did not suit him; his idea, he said, was to use the nitrate now and let it push his cotton crop forward so he wouldn't have to work it!

If he follows that plan, when he goes to gather his crop next fall—Luck is going to be against him! The more fertilizer you put under your crop, the more you ought to work it. Isn't it foolishness to raise 500 pounds of seed cotton to the acre when you might raise twice as much? Just as much for gathering, just as much for seed, whether you raise ten bushels of corn to the acre or twenty. When David Dickson died, he left a Million Dollars. He made it farming in Georgia. He was the first Southern farmer to make that much money farming. When David Dickson was told that he spent too much money buying fertilizers, his answer was: "I don't mind spending a dollar, when I can get back a dollar and a quarter, or a dollar and a half for it."

Farmers who stop to think about the brand of guano they buy—save a lot of money on it. Of course you pay for the fertilizer and pay for putting it on. Bad or good it costs money. The other day a merchant who sells nearly a thousand tons of fertilizers every year—not the Dothan Guano Co's brands—bought fifty tons of Grange Mixture to put out on his own farms. It cost him more money than the other kind. People call him a skin flint. We don't believe it; he simply knows what will pay him best to use, and he pays the price for it and uses it.

while in the city today.

There is more Calomel in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years every year about 10,000 people have been driving a living selling Calomel.

By constantly filling the pockets with Calomel it is natural to become rich.
They will not be able to find a man who can try to get away.

Mind I don't pretend to argue that the Calomel is good. It is not. It is a constituted disease of the human system.
But the Calomel is the right remedy to get rid of it. It is a natural cure on the part of the body. It acts directly on the blood stream. It acts directly on the system. They offer one hundred and one ways to get rid of Calomel.

High Dive—Balloon Ascension.

And I've got another notion which I'd like to have you know.
All the time I'm away to heaven, I can't tell you how I'd like to do it but I can't get away from the world to go to heaven. I'd like to do it but I can't get away from the world
to go to heaven.

Cause for Thankfulness.
Thank you, Mr. S. F. Kiser, for the opinion I had. I am not the only one that will thank heaven. And if you are ill, your doctor is fit for nothing but the soap pile and your life seems to have been given by a mink.

Oh! It's a greater curse than an atherosclerosis being thankful. The pa-

we were not learned.

Up in the Air.
I have been up at the top of Pikes Peak which is over 14,000 feet above

height you ever reached?

I don't know just what the doctor was but he must have been much greater than that which you mention.
I made the ascent shortly after I had stepped with my bare feet on a bum
big ice tent.

Cocoon Club Meets
With Mrs. Reid—

The Cocoon Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. Reid in austerely afternoon at their club.

The afternoon's brightness was reflected in the gaiety of the room, young hosts and their mother, Mr. B. I. Reid who is 74, in making the afternoon so delightful.

The meeting was opened by the President Mrs. S. G. Williams, and roll call responded with interest, current a cut after the bus had been disposed of.

After the bus had been disposed of the club president, Mrs. I. M. Levy gave a synopsis of the opera still fully bringing out all the beauty and pathos of this fascinating story. Miss Turner's beautiful and finished rendering of Ah! Chee Shaded to Rest, was followed by Miss Della's brilliant and artistic instrumental interpretation of the same selection. Miss Turner and Mrs. C. B. Reid were the Program. Some fine voice blending exquisitely in the cadences of this dramatic number.

He let part on the program preceding the choral number was the H. Trovatore. I instant in instrumental arrangement bringing in all of the melodies of the opera in parts and making most harmonious whole and given by Miss Chamberlain and Miss H. C. Forrester in such a sympathetic and skillful manner that it lost none of its original beauty and distinctness.

In the dining room where the refreshments were served, it was the program punk was pretty good in the department of meat and other delicacies and traps, from east to west.

J. B. Edwards of Montgomery was in the city this morning on business.

CHRISTIAN MARTYRS OR A TALE OF ANCIENT ROME

The Pictorian Camp

Marcellus was born in Gauls and had been born up in the stern discipline of the Roman army. He had been quartered in Africa in Syria and in Britain where he had distinguished himself not only by bravery in the field but also by skill in the camp for these reasons he had received honors and promotions and upon his arrival at Rome to which he had come as the bearer of dispatches he had so pleased the emperor that he had been appointed to an important station among the Pictorian. In Gauls had never been out of Italy scarcely indeed out of the city. He belonged to one of the oldest and most noble Roman families and enjoyed corresponding wealth and influence. He was chameled with the bold and frank nature of Marcullus and the two young men had become firm friends. The intimate knowledge of the capital which Marcullus possessed enabled him also to be of service to his friend and the scene which had been described in the preceding chapter was out of the first visit which Marcullus had made to the renowned Coliseum.

The Pictorian Camp was situated close to the city wall to which it was joined by another wall which enclosed it. The soldiers lived in room like cells made in the wall. It was

They were a numerous and finely appointed body of men and their situation at the capitol gave them a power and an influence so great that for ages they controlled the government of the capitol. A command now, the pretorians was a road to fame and Marcullus could look forward with well grounded hope of future honors.

On the morning of the following day Marcullus entered his room. At

for the usual salutation he spoke in the light which they had witness

Such scenes are not to my taste said Marcullus. They are cowardly. I like to see well trained men engaged in a fair combat but such butchery as you have in the Coliseum is detestable. Why should Master be murdered? He was a brave man and I honor his courage. And why should old men and young children be handed over to wild beasts? It is the law.

They are Christians. That is all says the master. What have the Christians done? I have seen them in all parts of the world but have never known them to be engaged in disturbances. They are the worst of mankind. So it is said but what proof is there? Proof? It is too well known. Their crime is that they plot in secret against the laws and the religion of the state.

So intense is the hatred which they bear toward our institutions that they will die rather than offer sacrifice. They own no king or master but the Crucified Jew whom they believe is alive now. And they show their malice in by us as starting that we shall all hereafter be tortured in Hades forever.

"This may be true. I know not I know nothing at all about them. The city is swarming with them the empire is overrun. And many this. The decline of our empire which all see and lament, the spread of the weakness and instability the contraction of our boundaries all this increases as the Christians increase. To what else are these evils owing if not to them?"

How have they produced this? By their detestable teachings and practices. They teach that fighting is wrong that soldiers are the bane of men that our glorious religion under which we have prospered in a curse and that the immortal Gods are accursed and that their teachings aim to overthrow all morality. In their private practice as they perform the darkest and foulest crimes. They always keep by themselves in impenetrable secrecy but sometimes we overhear their evil discourses and hear songs."

All this is indeed serious and if true they deserve punishment but according to your own statement they keep by themselves, and but little is known of them. Tell me did those who suffered yesterday seem like this? Did that old man look as though he had passed his life in vicious ways? Do those fair young girls sing songs as they waited for the Master? Unto Him that loved us, To Him who washed us from our sins? And Marcullus sang in a soft voice the words which he had learned
